

GUADALUPE REGIONAL FLOOD PLANNING

STATE AND REGIONAL FLOOD PLANNING

In 2019, the Texas Legislature created a state and regional flood planning process for Texas in the wake of historic flooding. Through this process administered by the Texas Water Development Board (TWDB) the state designated 15 planning area regions, including the Region 11 Guadalupe Regional Flood Planning Region. The 15 planning regions are tasked with developing regional flood plans to identify flood prone areas and assess ways to address flooding through the first-ever statewide flood plan. The Region 11 Guadalupe Flood Planning Region is administered by the Guadalupe-Blanco River Authority. The actual planning for the region is led by a committee of volunteer members, called the Guadalupe Regional Flood Planning Group.

GUADALUPE REGIONAL FLOOD PLANNING GROUP

The purpose of the Guadalupe Regional Flood Planning Group (RFPG) is to provide comprehensive regional flood planning and develop a regional flood plan. The plan identifies both short and long-term flood risks and recommends Flood Management Strategies (FMS) and Flood Management Projects (FMP) and estimates the funding required to implement these solutions in order to protect against the loss of life and property.

The planning group is comprised of 15 volunteer members representing 12 interest categories throughout the Guadalupe River basin. Planning group meetings are generally held monthly.

Agriculture

Environmental

Water Districts

General Public

Electric Generating Utility

Municipalities

Small Business

Water Utility

Counties

Industries

Flood Districts

River Authorities

PLANNING TIMELINE

January 2023

First Regional Flood Plans Due

September 1, 2024

First Statewide Flood Plan Due

Every 5 Years

Statewide Flood Plan Updated

OPPORTUNITIES FOR INPUT

Flood planning for the Guadalupe River basin is a transparent process where public input and participation is welcomed and encouraged. Your insight is valuable and with it the Guadalupe Regional Flood Planning Group is better able to address the flood mitigation needs of ALL communities in the Guadalupe River basin. Through this planning process, the Guadalupe Regional Flood Planning Group will help to identify funding for flood control projects.

There are many opportunities for you to engage and provide input:

- Provide comments at a monthly Guadalupe Regional Flood Planning Group meeting
- Use the interactive tool available at www.guadalupeRFPG.org to help identify and provide information about any flood prone areas or ongoing projects and strategies being developed to address flood risks
- Provide comments on the draft regional flood plan at a public hearing
- Sign up to receive notices of activities at www.guadalupeRFPG.org/contact.aspx
- Provide feedback and comments online at www.guadalupeRFPG.org/contact.aspx or by emailing comments@guadalupeRFPG.org at any time

Meetings of the Guadalupe Regional Flood Planning Group are typically held the first Wednesday of every month. Specific dates, times and locations of all meetings can be found at www.guadalupeRFPG.org/meetings.aspx.

FOR MORE INFORMATION

www.guadalupeRFPG.org
comments@guadalupeRFPG.org